THE South-Carolina Gazette.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

From THURSDAY June 18, to THURSDAY June 25, 1741.

LONDON, March 19.

Extract of a Letter from the HAGUE.

WE are very authentickly informed, that there is a Scheme upon the Carpet, in the firſt Place for accommodating Matters between the Courts of Vienna and Berlin, and then for forming a Grand Alliance, in order to humble France and Spain. The Allies are ſaid to be the Engliſh, Dutch, Danes, Swedes, Ruſſians, Pruſſians, and Auſtrians, who are reſpectively to furniſh the following Quotas, viz. England 40,000 Men, Holland 30,000, Denmark 10,000, Sweden 20,000, Ruſſia 50,000, Pruſſia 70,000, and the Queen of Hungary 60,000. The Engliſh, Dutch, and Danes, amounting to 80,000, to act in Flanders; the Ruſſians and Pruſſians 100,000, upon the Rhine; Part of the Auſtrians, the Swedes, and Pruſſians 80,000, in Alſace or Germany, to keep in Awe ſome of the Electors; other Part of the Auſtrians, and ſome Switzers, 55,000, in Italy. There is likewiſe to be a Naval Armament of 20 Engliſh Men of War, 15 Dutch, 6 Daniſh, 6 Swediſh, and 8 Ruſſian, in all 55; Part of which to be ſent into the Miderranean, and the reſt to act as ſhall be thought requiſite. By Virtue of which Force Great-Britain will probably be enabled to do herſelf Juſtice for the Affronts and Injuries ſhe has receiv'd; the Dutch will ſecure, and it may be, add to their Barrier; the Houſe of Auſtria may poſſibly recover Lorrain; and the King of Pruſſia ſecure to himſelf the Succeſſion to Bergue and Juliers.

Cadiz, March 7. The four Engliſh Men of War which cruiſed before this Bay were joined a few Days ago by three more ſent from Port-Mahon by Admiral Haddock. As that Squadron viſits all Ships that ſail from hence, ſeveral Veſſels bound for the Weſt-Indies dare not venture out. Our Letters from Court ſtill aſſure us, that the Treaſure of the Galleons will ſoon arrive.

Stockholm, March 16. Our Warlike Preparations are carried on with greater Vigour than ever: It is reported that a Camp will be form'd in Finland as ſoon as the Seaſon permits. In the mean Time vaſt Quantities of Ammunition and Proviſions are ſent thither, and the Court has iſſued freſh Orders for haſtening the Equipment of the Fleet.

Peterſburgh, March 18. Within theſe few Days the greateſt part of the Troops of this Empire are in Motion; ſeveral Regiments are marching towards Revel and Riga; others are advancing towards this Capital; thoſe that were quarter'd in the Neighbourhood of Pleſcow, and are now filing off to Livonia, will be replaced by the Troops at Muſcow, and the latter by others from the Ukraine.

The Court has order'd ſeveral Men of War to be fitted up with all poſſible Diligence, and the Galleys to be careen'd, that a large Body of Troops may be embark'd in Caſe of Need. We are not yet exactly inform'd of the Motive to all this; but many think that the laſt Letters from Stockholm are the Occaſion of it.

Stockholm, March 21. Mr. Burnaby, charg'd with the Britiſh Affairs here, receiv'd a Courier from London a few Days ago; ſince which he has preſented a Memorial to the Miniſtry, demanding that a Body of Troops be furniſhed to his Britannick Majeſty for an annual Subſidy: This Memorial is to be examin'd by the Secret Committee. We are impatient to hear what Anſwer will be given to Mr. Burnaby, becauſe this Crown, by the laſt Treaty concluded with France, has engag'd not to contract, for the Space of Ten Years, any Alliance that may be againſt the Intereſt of his Chriſtian Majeſty. The French Embaſſador has already had a Conference on this Subject with Count Gyllenbourg. That Nobleman has ſtill a great Influence, in ſpight of all the Efforts of thoſe who want to weaken it. They are hard at work at Carelſcroon in equipping 12 Men of War, with which the Court has reſolv'd to augment the Fleet. Orders have alſo been iſſued for building 25 Gallies; but if that Number is not ſufficient we ſhall build 50 or 60.

Copenhagen, March 7. A Council has been held, to which the Admirals were call'd, and his Daniſh Majeſty order'd Eight Ships of the Line, and three Frigates, to be in readineſs to put to Sea within ſix Weeks.

Peterſburgh, March 19. A Courier is arrived here from M. Beſtuchef, our Miniſter at the Court of Sweden, with Advice that that Court has reſolv'd not only to aſſemble forthwith the Troops in Finland, but alſo to encreaſe them, and ſend over a great Train of Artillery. Upon this News, the Court has order'd 12 Regiments to join as ſoon as poſſible the Troops already in Livonia, where an Army of 30,000 Men is to be aſſembled under the Command of the Veldt-Marſhal Lacy. The Prince of Heſſe Hombourg is to command a Body of 20,000 Men in Carelia.

Naples, March 14. We work Night and Day, and even on Sundays and Holidays, to get every thing ready for the Expedition againſt Tuſcany, and Orders have been iſſued for getting ready the Ships which the Government has hir'd to tranſport the Artillery, Proviſions and Warlike Stores laid up here.

The eight Regiments of Foot and thoſe of Horſe which enter again into the King of Spain's Service only wait for their ultimate Orders to begin their March into the Eccleſiaſtick State. There is no Talk of the March of the Neapolitan Troops, tho' the Court is recruiting and augmenting them with all poſſible Diligence

Copenhagen, March 24. The Court has order'd Four Companies belonging to the Train of Artillery to hold themſelves in readineſs to march on the firſt Notice. Other Preparations are making, which ſeem to confirm the Report of the King's Intention to aſſemble an Army in Holſtein.

Vienna, March 22. Two more Couriers are arriv'd from Dreſden, with Diſpatches, 'tis ſaid, relating to an important Negociation actually on the Tapis between the two Courts. We hear that the Bavarian Troops are on their March to the general Rendezvous.

London, April 4. Yesterday it was reported, that two Spanish Ships homeward bound from Carraccas, having an immense Treasure on Board, were taken by some Part of Admiral Haddock's Squadron upon the Coast of Old Spain.

CHARLES-TOWN, June 25.

The Mate and part of the Crew lately belonging to the Sloop Mary, James Hill Master, are arriv'd here from Providence, and inform us, that they sail'd from Jamaica for New-York the 13th of May last, and on the 22d were cast-away upon the Hog-styes in the Windward-Passage, whereupon they all took to their Boat, and in a few Days met with a Sloop bound for Providence, which took them all on board. That when they sail'd from Jamaica, General Wentworth, all the Land Forces, and near all the Men of War were returned from Carthagena, after having taken and demolish'd all the Forts and Fortifications, except Fort Lazarus, the Citadel, and the Town. All the Iron Guns Admiral Vernon ordered to be thrown into the Sea, and all the Brass Ones to be put on board the Men of War for Jamaica. Off the East End of Jamaica, Capt. Hill met 11 Sail of Men of War, being the Remainder of the Fleet which came out with Admiral Vernon from Carthagena, but the Admiral was not with them, he having been parted from them 3 Days; they told Capt. Hill that they left one Man of War of 50 and another of 40 Guns at Carthagena, and that the Admiral had sent a Letter to the Governor of the Havannah, in order to acquaint him that he would pay him a Visit in two Months. 'Twas reported at Jamaica, that the Spaniards had ransomed the Citadel and Town of Carthagena for 9,000,000 of Money.

We hear from Jamaica, that Lieutenant Governor Clark's Son was slain among those who attempted to take the Citadel of Carthagena.

We hear that the Molly, Capt. Murray, which sail'd from hence the 24th of Jan. last for Providence, was taken the 26th near our Bar, by a large (Bermudas built) Spanish Privateer, and carried into the Havannah.

On Friday last his Majesty's Ship the Phœnix, Capt. Charles Fanshaw, sail'd on a Cruise, and at the same took under Convoy several Ships bound for England.

We hear from Providence, that his Excellency Governor Tinker has order'd Two Half-Galleys to be forthwith built for the Service of that Government.

Yesterday arrived here Capt. Marshal in 6 Days from Providence, who gives us the following Account, viz. That a few Days before he sail'd, Capt. Hudson arrived there from Philadelphia, and told him that the Day he came out of the Capes he met a fine large (Bermudas built) Spanish Privateer going in, that had been taken a few Days before off Cape Henlopen, by one of the Philadelphia Privateers, which had also re-taken a Brigt. bound for Philadelphia with Wines from Madeira. —That the Spanish Privateer which took Mr. Bullock and his Sloop from Crooked-Island, (as mention'd in a late Gazette,) was an open Boat, (with 4 Swivel Guns and 16 Spaniards) belonging to Baraccoa, and that they had put Mr. Bullock ashore again.

Extract of a Letter from Frederica in Georgia, dated May 16, 1741.

'Capt. Richard Norbury, Capt. Albert 'Desbrisay and several other of General 'Oglethorpe's Officers, dined together at 'St. Simons Camp, on Sunday the 10th of 'this Month; there arose a Dispute be'tween Capt. Norbury and Capt. Desbri'say, the other Gentlemen interposed, and 'in all Appearance reconcil'd the two Cap'tains, and they drank several Glasses of 'of Wine together (after the Dispute) in 'a friendly Way; soon after, the Compa'ny broke up, and went different Ways; 'but unfortunately Capt. Norbury and 'Capt. Desbrisay met, upon which a fresh 'Dispute arose, they drew their Swords, 'and before any Body had Time to part 'them, Capt. Norbury received Three 'Wounds, one in his Belly, the other two 'in his Arms; he died on the Spot. Capt. 'Desbrisay receiv'd Three Wounds, he 'was run through one Thigh, wounded in 'the other, and in his left Hand.

AS the dangerous and fatal Conſequences of Fluxes in general, but particularly of Dyſenteries or Bloody Fluxes, daily appear, eſpecially in theſe Countries; and as all the different Methods, hitherto known, of treating that Diſtemper, very often prove unſucceſsful: Waving therefore any farther Preamble, I take this Opportunity to acquaint the Publick, that I have happily diſcovered, and gradually improved during my Practice in the Medical Art, a Medicine, which may truly be called, as far as the Nature of Things will admit of, a certain Remedy in thoſe Caſes.

It conſiſts of a Decoction of certain particular Gums, Roots and ſtomachic Aromatics, to be exhibited by the Mouth, and a Decoction of Gums only, by way of Clyſter, made ſtronger or weaker; according to the Cauſe of the Diſeaſe, Conſtitution of the Patient, Exigency of the Caſe, &c. This has never fail'd of its deſired Effect, viz. ſtopping the Flux, when uſed in Time, i. e. if the Patient was able to take a ſufficient Number of Doſes.

POSTSCRIPT
TO THE
South-Carolina Gazette.

THURSDAT, June 25. Numb. 383.

Mr. Timothy,

THE defamatory Extracts, which diſhonour'd the Poſtſcript to your laſt Gazette, have excited a Curioſity in many People, not ſo much to enquire after the Names of the Writers, as the officious Editor.—We think we have a Right to demand this; for if any queſtion the Truth of ſuch extraordinary Facts, to whom ſhall he repair for Satisfaction? Should we want to conſult Them in whoſe Hands are the original Letters depoſited! At this Rate, what may not a Man, of a ſmall Share of Wit and Invention, cook up, and obtrude upon the eaſy Credulity of his Readers? Even the moſt infamous Falſhoods, dated from ſome foreign Country. This Proceeduie may have a Shew of Policy, but there can be no Juſtice in it, it is not dealing equitably with the Publick, and can oblige very few beſides Your very humble Servant.——. However, ſo it is—The Publiſher has given us Extracts, which he ſeems aſhamed to own by ſubſcribing his Name to Them, and left every giddy-headed Reader to fix it, where Fancy or Inclination leads.—Some of the more judicious among us think, the Extracts contain ſome ſuch ſcurrilous Expreſſions as could only drop from One of our ruder Hackney Pens, This I determine not—But I dare not give in to the Opinion of Others, who are ready to aſcribe it to a certain ECCLESIASTICK among us. For is it poſſible any Clergyman, which every Body knows implies the Gentleman, ſhould forget his own Character, and the common Laws of Decency, ſo far as to publiſh to the World, without ſome ſpecial Mark of Abhorrence, ſuch a Piece of Satyr upon Religion, as This, viz. 'Some after Agonies and Torments like 'thoſe of Hell, are happily recover'd and 'new born, forſooth, and with as much 'Heavenly Joy, as any Bedlam People!' What could a Bedlamite ſay worſe! And if it was prophane, or, to ſoften the Charge, indecent in the Writer, 'tis ſo in the Publiſher. What ſerious conſiſtent Clergyman, who that has any Reverence for a Gown or a Band, and would preſerve the Honours of the Prieſthood, could repreſent Childrens meeting together for religious Exerciſes, Prayer and pious Conferences, and the Number of Notes put up for Perſons under Convictions and Terrors, &c. as a criminal Thing, of ill Report, and dangerous Conſequence; as if it were not as Muſick in the Ear of every ſincere Miniſter of Jeſus Chriſt, or as if God could not thus ordain Praiſe out of the Mouth of Babes and Sucklings! And what if a Shoe-maker went to His Prayers, did He go beyond His Laſt?—But now the moſt unpardonable Crime of all!—They can't ſwallow the 3000 £. Mr. Whitefield collected in New-England, which one of our Editor's Correſpondents, judicious Man! expects to hear was communicated to our late Fire-Sufferers; and our Editor Himſelf muſt at at once commence Queriſt upon it, and very gravely gravely appeals to Us, whether one Farthing out of that profuſe Contribution had been ſo applied? — A Queſtion, how trifling and to the laſt Degree abſurd! The good Man had collected ſome Charities for the poor Orphans at Georgia, who had no other Purſe or Fund, and he muſt play the Villain (muſt he!) Betray his Truſt and give to the Poor of Charles-Town, who had ſo many other Springs of Relief open to them, and their immediate Neceſſities ſupplied, before the good Man ſaw or heard of the Fire! Nor would he, as ſome others, ſounded a Trumpet before him, had it been in his Power to give ſuch Alms. Let the Queriſt put on Mr. Whitefield's Bowels of Compaſſion to the Souls and Bodies of Men; let him erect, ſupport and inſtruct a large Houſe of Orphans, and at the ſame Time labour as indefatigably in the Word and Doctrine, without any eſtabliſh'd Salary, and will all diſcharge him of any other Benefactions and Charities. —— But I have been in an enthuſiaſtick Rapture, and muſt beg our Editor's Pardon.— I have incautiouſly call'd his Extracts defamatory, as ſome ill-natur'd People amongſt us might too haſtily conſtrue the Deſign of Them; but on a ſecond Peruſal, they appear to me really encomiaſtick, and carry an Air of Panegyrick upon thoſe Two noble Champions of Free Grace, Whitefield and Tennent.—We have a publick open Teſtimony from the Pens of profeſſed Adverſaries, that God has viſibly own'd and proſper'd their Labours. — 'The Chaiſe 'and Coach Wheels (like the Charriots of Amminadab,) 'have been in a Flame.' —— The Women forgot the Tenderneſs and Delicy of their Sex and faced all the Artillery of the North. — 'Neither Cold nor Snow 'could keep the red-riding Hoods at Home, 'by Night or Day' — A Mercy, none of the poor Creatures hang'd Themſelves, as lately at Philadelphia, which had it the little inconſiderable Circumſtance of Truth, might be a moſt obliging Topick of Satyr to ſome of our Pulpits. —After the publication of theſe Extracts, if any want to know the preſent State of New-England, I ſhall refer Them, Mr. Timothy, to you — Shew Them the Carolina Gazette No. 382. But certainly, the producing ſuch great Effects can argue nothing contemptible in the Cauſes. — The Preacher muſt be a Boanerges, there muſt be ſomething of Mount Sinai in his Sermons, he cannot be a thorough-paced Antinomian. — He muſt put on a great Deal of Terror, and be cloath'd with Thunder to make ſuch a Trembling in the Camp — that even 'ſtout young Fellows, 'as well as ſilly Women and Children 'ſhould be ſo ſtung! One would imagine too he muſt be arm'd with good Reaſoning, and be Maſter of ſome Perſuaſion, that Cambridge itſelf ſhould be ſo moved Her Sons ſo impregnated, that we may expect to ſee Bunyan, Stoddard and Sheppard ſo ſoon again in our Pulpits! But now I have gone ſo far it would be unpardonable to overlook good Mr. Ruggles. — I know not, how he approves of putting up Notes for Prayer, but he can devoutly give Thanks, it ſeems, that he is rid of ſuch a Tennent, and I can't help joining with Him in his Thanksgiving, that he has done no more Damage, and ſo much Good among Them. ——

POSTSCRIPT
South-Carolina Gazette.

THURSDAY, June 25. Numb. 583.

Mr. Timothy,

AS was foreſeen, ſo hath it come to paſs, one of the greateſt Zealots of the Party hath undertaken to give an Anſwer to the Extracts of the Letters from New-England publiſh'd in the Poſtſcript to the Gazette No. 382. I ſay as was foreſeen, for the Temper of this Gentleman in particular, (if in Truth he be, as it is impoſſible from his Style he can be any other than a certain 'V.D.M. that has ſo often loaded the Preſs with his Productions,) ſeemed ſo much to reſemble AT-ALL in the Play, that it was imagined he would not ſuffer any Thing to appear in Print againſt his Idol, without making an Attempt to combate it; Indeed the Affectation of a Victory, which he has modeſtly aſſum'd, before he has won it, over honeſt Arminius, whom it ſeems he has turned into Haywood and Stubble, (diſtorting the Scripture for the Sake of a wretched Pun,) ſeems to have carried him ſo far, as to make him imagine himſelf equal to all, who have or may appear againſt any of his peculiar Tenets. But to whiſper him a Secret and reſtore the Text, I deſire you Mr. Timothy would tell this Gentleman, that in the Opinion of moſt Men of Senſe, Learning and Candour he is unequal to the Task; that his voluminous Performances have not turn'd-out quite ſo good as Wood, Hay and Stubble, and that therefore he is altogether unfit to ſet up for an eccleſiaſtical Drawcanſir.

Tell this Zealot, Mr. Timothy, that he aſſumes too much when he writes ſo often in the regal Style and tells us what We, or the Publick have a Right to demand, when he is known to ſpeak the Senſe of not all, even of his own party. But ſhou'd there be indeed many, who have a Curioſity to enquire rather after the Name of the officious Editor than the Writers of the Letters in that Poſtſcript, and that they have in fact employ'd him to demand an Explanation, tell him he ought firſt to have conſidered who it was that ſet the officious Example of publiſhing Extracts and loading the Gazettes with ſulſome § panegyrical poſtſcripts; one to be ſure who cou'd not err, and in whoſe Steps therefore it can be no Fault to tread. But tell him further he ought, at the ſame Time he, in ſo aſſuming a Manner, demanded the Name of the laſt Editor, to have ſet an Example by writing his own Name at length, and that he ought not to have ſhelter'd himſelf under one, which ſeems quite different to his preſent Character; that ſo the Editor might have been able to judge whether he was in Truth ſo conſiderable a Perſonage as to deſerve any Notice: But tell him alſo he may be aſſur'd the Letters are no Forgeries, as has been ſcandalouſly aſſerted, but are from Gentlemen of Character and Reputation in New-England to certain Perſons of ſome Reputation in this Town, in whoſe Hands they may be ſeen by Gentlemen properly deſiring it, and who wou'd not now have made any ſcruple of giving their Names to the Publick had it been deſired in a leſs indecent Manner.

But to examine a little nearer your laſt Poſtſcript, I wou'd have you Mr. Timothy inform your angry Author, that a little more Modeſty would have better become a Man that pretends to be the Diſciple and Follower of the meek and lowly Jeſus, than the Taking the Liberty of charging others with cooking-up and obtruding Falſhoods, even the moſt infamous Falſhoods upon the Credulity of their Readers. And tho' he has not dar'd to do this in direct Terms, tell him his Inſinuations are underſtood, and are, as moſt of his other Labours of late have been, deſpiſed; and that, the worthy good Man, he would traduce and vilify under the Name of a certain ECCLESIASTICK in Capitals, is far above the Reach of his impotent Rage; and that he is ſecure in his Learning and good Senſe, Virtue and Religion, againſt the malicious and unjuſt Inſinuation: But tell him alſo, that this excuſes not him from the Infamy of this ſcandalous Attempt.

This Zealot, (for ſo I may be juſtified in calling him, ſince he expreſsly takes that Title to himſelf, when he ſays, I appealed to him, when I appealed to the greateſt Zealot among the Whitefieldians;) asks 'whether 'it is poſſible any Clergyman ſhould forget his 'own Character and the Laws of Decency ſo far 'as to publiſh to the World without ſome ſpecial 'Marks of Abhorrence ſuch a Piece of Satyr up-'on Religion as this, viz. "ſome after Agonies "and Torments like thoſe of Hell, are happily "recovered and new-born, forſooth, and with "as much heavenly Joy as any Bedlam People!" Now I would aſk this Zealot wherein the Satyr upon Religion, true, proper and rational Religion, ſuch as is the Chriſtian Religion, to
